

ETHNODOXOLOGY SEMINAR AND WORKSHOP JULY 20-29

This seminar is designed for church musicians, students, pastors, missionaries, and local church members interested in missions. In addition to the interactive, media-rich learning sessions, workshop participants will take part in group projects, and participate in a global hymn festival on July 28 at 7 p.m. on Southeastern's campus. The festival, which is free and open to the public, will include music from several Raleigh-area churches that represent cultures from around the world.

For more info, contact Dr. Boozer at jboozers@sebts.edu.

The seminar involves a team from the International Council of Ethnodoxologists. More info on ICE can be found at www.worldofworship.org.
